What do athletes like Michael Jordan, Jack Nicklaus, Joe Montana, Wayne Gretzky and Terry Bradshaw have in common? How about celebrities like Steven Segal, Lee Majors, Cloris Leachman, Sharon Farrel and list too long to mention?

All of them have been treated by or own their own extraordinary medical instruments called the Electro-Acuscope & Electro-Myopulse. They use them to heal injuries, eliminate pain, speed up post-surgical recovery or even to look younger. And without exception, they all claim the results are "simply miraculous".

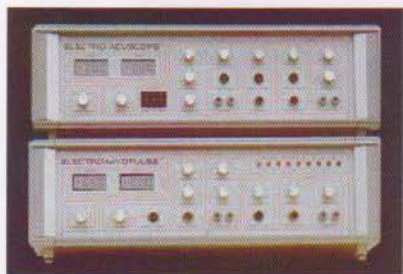

Veteran golfer Jack Nicholas, was so impressed with his results, he bought his own equipment. He says, "I've had tendonitis problems in both my wrists and my elbow. With the Acuscope/Myopulse I got amazing results. It just stopped hurting. And what I really like about it is that you can't over-treat with it." He claims it helped to lengthen his golfing career by assisting in rapid healing after a variety of injuries and surgeries.

Football star, Terry Bradshaw used the machine after he severely injured his elbow in one of his games. "After four treatments, I was out of pain and back in the game."

John Thorp, a pioneer in treating patients with Acuscope/Myopulse and facial units, says that medical doctors from all over have been referring patients to him because of the rapid and profound results. Thorp explains how it works.

"The human body functions through electrical conductivity, with different currents flowing through connective channels such as muscle, bone and neural tissue. When a person is injured, the body's normal conductivity in the damaged tissues is frequently altered. The machine locates abnormal tissue and produces a corrective current that normalizes it. Over a series of treatments, the current opens up the damaged areas to blood flow, circulation and assimilation of calcium ions so that the body can begin its own natural healing. The Electro-Acuscope provides electrical nerve stimulation and has microchips that are programmed to treat all body systems. It is capable of monitoring and treating both acute and chronic disorders. The Electro-Myopulse provides electrical muscle stimulation and has microchips that are tuned to read and treat muscle and connective tissue. This focus enables it to rapidly treat acute soft tissue injuries; people don't feel any discomfort with the treatments. Mostly, they only feel relaxation."

Thorp has developed a series of highly specific protocols for the Acuscope/Myopulse and as a result has trained hundreds of doctors and physical therapists all over the country on how to use the technology to produce the fastest, most profound results.

Thorp Institute History

John S. Thorp is President CEO and Director of Electro Medicine inc. established in 1987. In 1988 he attended the institute of Oriental medicine and studied Acupuncture. He focused his studies on Acupuncture Points Channels and Meridians. He began developing his own unique protocols based on what he had personally experienced in his own dramatic recovery.

In 1986 he shattered his tibia, fibula and femur and was told that without a total knee replacement he would be crippled. Thorp had been a successful Hollywood stunt man on such shows as "Hawaii five-O", "Magnum PI", "Jake and the fatman", "The Six million dollar Man" and a host of others. A total knee replacement would mean an end to his career and the life style he loved.

Lee Majors, a long term friend of Thorp recommended he try a new and highly regarded therapy that had been thrust into the limelight by professional athletes, such as Terry Bradshaw, Joe Montana, and golfing great Jack Nichols. The results were incredible. A year from the date of his injury he completed his first triathlon on a leg the doctors said would never bend and eighteen years later and twenty eight triathlon later there are still no signs of arthritis!. He returned to the occupation he loved and began sharing this amazing technology with his friends and colleagues. He proved by working on his horses that it was not a placebo effect or mind over matter that created his dramatic recovery. Every horse he treated had the same incredible results of cutting recovery time in half.

It was not long before Thorp had created a following from the stables and stunt world into a world-renowned Medical Center, Castle Medical Center in Hawaii. Castle initiated the use of the Electro Acuscope and Myopulse instruments under the supervision of Thorp into their "work well" rehabilitation center in 1990. Overseeing 40 plus patients a day gave Thorp the opportunity to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that his specific protocols had a 90% success rate in the reduction of chronic pain.

Since then he has opened two Medical Clinics of his own, Balance Body Center, located in Hawaii and Thorp Institute of Alternative Medicine located at the Westwood medical center in Los Angeles. He has now overseen over 50,000 treatments generating worldwide publicity. Thorp retired from his day to day medical practice in 1997 and founded Thorp Institute of Integrated Medicine. He developed and published the first tested clinical protocols on the use of the Electro Acuscope and Myopulse.

Mr. Thorp's consistent results using his clinically tested protocols have attracted national and international media attention. He has been endorsed by several top medical facilities including Cedar Sinai, Castle Medical Center, Maui Memorial Hospital and notable schools such as UCLA, Westmont College, St. George's Medical School and several others.

John Thorp will be speaking on the truths and myths of medicine in the 21st century.

Acuscope and Myopulse:

- Reimbursed by most insurance companies
- FDA Approved, "Class 2" Medical Devices
- A 90% success rate in the reduction of chronic and acute pain
- Currently in use by the following health care providers; Medical Doctors of Neurology, podiatry, physiatrist, osteopathic, psychiatric and orthopedics. Physical therapists, Chiropractors, Naturopathic physicians, Doctors of Oriental medicine, Dentists, Orthodontists and Veterinarians.
- Thorp Institute Divisions
- Acute & Chronic pain generated from injury or disease
